GUEST OF HONOR

EMILE DEVITO, PH.D.

by David F. Moore

Honorary Gala Co-chair & Former Executive Director of the New Jersey Conservation Foundation

A short biography of Emile DeVito would be filled with superlatives about his contributions to conservation in New Jersey. It would be a long list of endangered species protected, land preserved, organizations advised, legislators informed, and individuals helped. But instead of writing all that, I thought it would be fun to put it in his own words – as I imagine them. Here is what I think he would have said:

Some people don't pronounce my first name right. It's A-Meal. It used to be A-Mill. I don't know why or how it changed, but it happened around the time I started work for the New Jersey Conservation Foundation, a couple of decades ago.

I come from a long line of Italian laborers. My parents wanted to break the mold, so they urged their sons to get a college education. I got interested in birds when I was very young, so I chose to study them in college. I did better than my Mom and Dad expected, and got a doctorate from Rutgers. I had noticed that some bird species and fruiting plants had figured each other out, and each depended on the other for survival. So I wanted to figure out why and how, and I did. The smarter plants learned that birds loved red colors. Some of my graduate studies were in Costa Rica, where I spent lots of time in the cloud forest at MonteVerde.

My mentor at Rutgers was a tropical ecologist, Professor Ted Stiles, my boss Michele Byers's late husband. That's not the only connection with my employer. Dave Moore, retired Executive Director at NJCF, hired me right out of school. Not too long after that, Michele set me up with an NJCF volunteer named Hazel, and that led to our marriage. Hazel is from Scotland, and we were married there. It's hard enough to imagine an Italian lad and a Scottish lass getting married, but an Italian in a kilt? Hazel, by the way, now works at GSWA.

In 1989, I started work for NJCF as Director of Conservation Biology. I chose the catchy title myself. At the time, almost every staff member was the director of something, and I didn't want to be an exception.

Some people think I'm loud and pushy, but I'm not. Well, maybe loud. I know what I believe in, and I want everyone to understand where I'm coming from whether they want to or not. And, sure enough, most folks get the picture, because what I teach is based on science. That's why I'm good at what I do.

What are my proudest moments? When people I don't even know bump into me at meetings, and tell me that they are fighting to save plants, forests, wetlands, or some element of natural diversity because of something I said or wrote years ago.

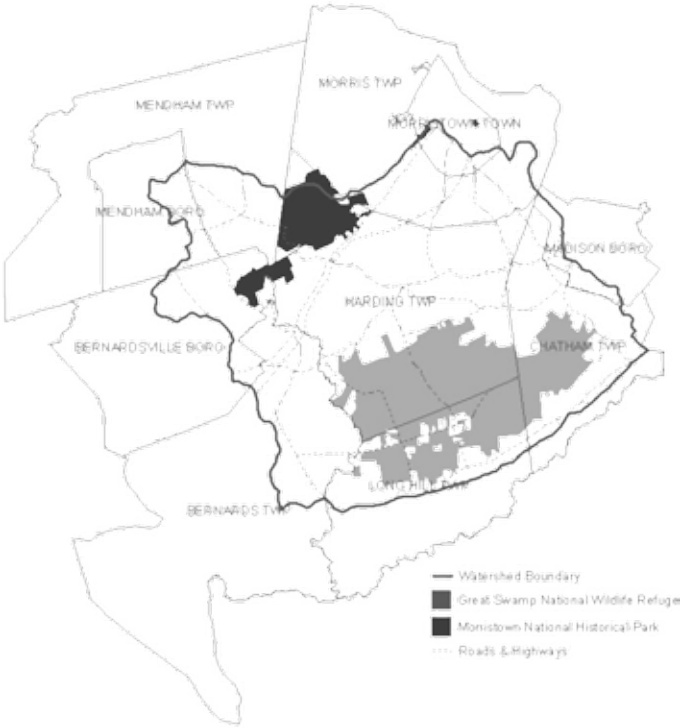

I am forever glad that I had the good fortune to find and hire Emile. New Jersey is a better place because of his devotion and his passion.

GREAT SWAMP WATERSHED ASSOCIATION

The GREAT SWAMP WATERSHED ASSOCIATION (GSWA), based in Harding Township, NJ, is dedicated to protecting and improving water resources in the region by monitoring local streams, advocating for intelligent land use, and educating our communities about water quality and quantity and their effect on the health and natural beauty of the local environment. The Association serves as an important environmental resource for individuals, organizations and governmental entities.

The watershed region includes all or parts of these ten towns: Bernards Township, Bernardsville, Chatham Township, Harding Township, Long Hill Township, Madison, Mendham Borough, Mendham Township, Morristown, and Morris Township. The benefits of GSWA’s work, however, extend beyond these towns to the more than one million people who obtain their drinking water from the Passaic River, which empties into Newark Bay.

EQUAL HOUSING OPPORTUNITY

We make things bloom. New Jersey's future success depends on our ability to effectively manage the need for environmental protection with the need for a growing economy. At PSEG, we're committed to both. For three decades, we've been working to reduce the environmental impact of our own operations and working with others to achieve effective, innovative solutions to today's environmental issues. We're committed to reducing our carbon footprint through investments in renewable energy, efficient central power generation and energy efficiency measures. And, through investments in our customers and communities we're helping them reduce their carbon footprint as well. Balancing economic development and environmental protection is critical to creating a better, healthier world for our children. It's one way in which we're making things bloom in New Jersey.

Your bidder number can be found on the name tag you received upon entering the gala. If you do not have a name tag, or lost the one already provided, please return to registration or find a GSWA staff member.

The Great Swamp Watershed Association's first BioBlitz took place on May 18 and 19 in 2007 at the Morris County Park Commission's Loantaka Brook Reservation (Morris Township). One third contest, one third scientific research, and one third educational opportunity, a BioBlitz brings biology experts from local scientific institutions, nature clubs, and government wildlife agencies together to conduct an intensive, 24-hour, round-the-clock "snapshot survey" of every major group of animal and plant residing in a particular area.

Emile DeVito was on hand at GSWA's inaugural BioBlitz event lending his expertise and his own special brand of humor to the marathon project. What, after all, is funnier than a banana?

Warm, red fruit preserves on the nose, along with subtle licorice and dark chocolate qualities. Supple, sweet, and inviting. No harm drinking this one young. Lot # 505 Two Nicely Aged Barolos - Luscious

1999 Parusso Barolo. Parker: 90 points. Wine Spectator: 93 points. Still very young. Big wine; dark, solid, tannic core, but soft and balanced enough to truly enjoy. Full bodied with a great mouth feel—bordering on luscious—an awesome, slightly sweet and very long lingering aftertaste. The wine easily has a decade left, so anticipate further softening, improved balance, and score improvement. 2001 Cogno Ravera Barolo. Parker: 93 points. Wine Spectator: 92 points. Earthy and mature bouquet. Slightly sweet start. A touch of chocolate. Soft tannin. A beautiful wine already. Still a future of several years. Probably best before 2015. Still young—decant for a few hours, or cellar. 2000 Majella Coonawarra Cabernet Sauvignon. Opaque crimson-purple-mauve color. Aroma of chocolate, spice, and blackcurrant with a hint of violets. Spicy palate; quite tight and in need of several years bottle age. Generously donated by: Michael and Marilyn Dee

Robert Parker: 92. Wine Spectator: 91. Steve Tanzer: 91. Excellent deep red. Very sexy, expressive aromas of plum and milk chocolate. Sweet, lush and ripe, with considerable power and thrust for the vintage. Slightly roasted character, but boasts very good concentration and finishes with sweet, broad tannins, and excellent length. Fleshy and evolved enough to give pleasure now, but should hold up for the next 5 to 10 years. A Margaux standout in 2003. Generously donated by: Michael and Marilyn Dee

Minimum Bid: $50
