Abigail Fair by Julia Somers

Abbie was a founder of the Great Swamp Watershed Committee in 1981, and she was hugely involved in all things Great Swamp. We worked together many times, and in many ways. I was such a neophyte, and she was always patient and supportive and kind and funny. We enjoyed many great trips to Trenton together, laughing all the way there and back.

Best known for 22 years with the Association of New Jersey Environmental Commissions, Abbie became involved in this work after coordinating the Freshwater Wetlands Campaign, whose work resulted in the passage of New Jersey's landmark Freshwater Protection Act in 1987. That experience led her to become the go-to person in the state on wetlands and all water-related environmental issues. Abbie ran countless Environmental Commission and public education programs, and was a mentor to anyone who wanted to understand how our natural systems work, and how New Jersey's regulations applied to them.

Abbie served for many years on the Chatham Township Environmental Commission and the Planning Board, and she was elected to five terms on the Township Committee, including a term as mayor. She also served on the Ten Towns Great Swamp Watershed Management Committee, formed in 1995 to develop and implement a watershed management plan. Abbie retired last year and moved with husband Gordon to Massachusetts to be closer to their daughter and her family. We miss her!

Blaine Rothausser

Julia Somers by Abbie Fair

Julia exploded onto the Great Swamp scene when Chatham Township applied to the state to expand its sewage plant. She headed up a coalition that worked in parallel with the watershed association and aggressively lobbied the state and the Governor himself to deny the expansion. This, while managing her family – 4 kids and husband, along with a couple of horses, chickens and dogs and keeping up with choir and basseting across the fields. Both the coalition and the watershed association fielded a win as the DEP approved the expansion but with tough conditions. The decision led the way for the current notorious, state-wide “no-net increase” stormwater runoff requirement.

Soon after this battle, Julia became the first professional director for the watershed association. With unique ability, Julia built a skilled, effective staff. She astounded and stymied those whose projects she opposed by her good-humored, savvy persistence as well as her courage against impressive odds. Most admitted they actually enjoyed fencing with her. The Watershed Association grew by leaps and bounds under her 16-year leadership. Julia leaves a wonderful legacy. But she didn’t stop there.

She courageously stepped up to head the NJ Highlands Coalition in 2006, building a successful, effective alliance among the many local and state groups fighting to preserve the Highlands. That battle has intensified under the new state administration, but with Julia’s leadership, there is no question that the Highlands will be one of her legacies, largely preserved, for future generations.

Great Swamp Watershed Association

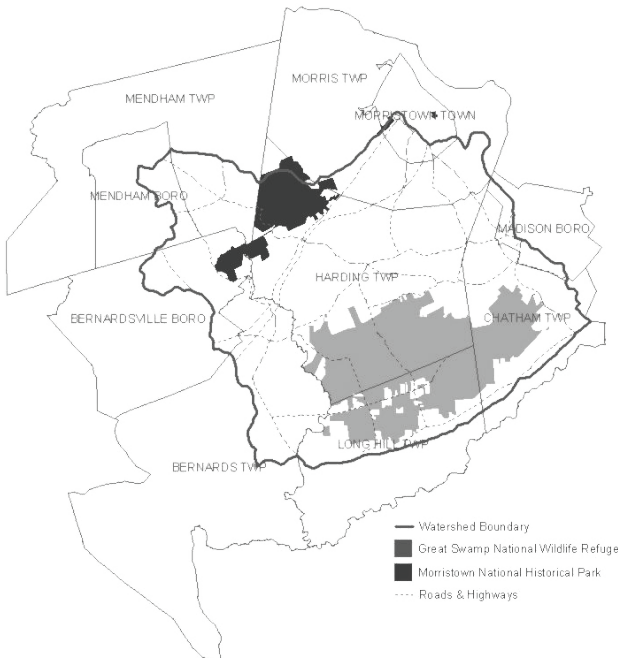

Our Mission

The Great Swamp Watershed Association is dedicated to protecting and improving water resources in the region by monitoring local streams, advocating for intelligent land use, and educating our communities about water quality and quantity, and their effect on the health and natural beauty of the local environment. The Association serves as an important environmental resource for individuals, organizations, and governmental entities.

Our Vision

The Great Swamp Watershed will be a model of superior watershed management in a rural, suburban, and urban landscape. Adults and children alike will understand where our water comes from, where it goes, what happens to it along the way, and the importance of protecting and improving it. Streams in the Watershed will be healthy, and their banks will be naturally vegetated. Water entering and leaving the Great Swamp National Wildlife Refuge will be clean. Flooding will be controlled naturally, and water above and below the surface will be sufficient to meet the present and future demands of residents. Deer will be rare, a sign that the land and water are healthy. Every property in the Watershed, private and public, commercial and residential, will play a vital role in supporting wildlife and managing water. The healthy Watershed will be an integral part of a thriving economy.

What Might Have Been

A map of the four runways for the jetport proposed by the Port Authority in December, 1959. Ridges in the area, such as those along Long Hill Road and Lee's Hill Road would have been leveled and used to fill in the swamp in order to accommodate runways.

Bidding Instructions

In order to expedite payment on auction items, we ask that you give your credit card information as you arrive at the gala.

- 1) There are more than 120 separate auction lots on which you may bid. Most lots list the actual monetary value of the package, the minimum bid, and the minimum raise. - 2) You will receive a bidding number when you arrive at the gala. To place a bid, write your bidding number on the corresponding Bid Sheet directly in front of your chosen item. You may bid on as many items as you wish, as often as you wish.
- 3) Each new bid must be written on the next available line on the Bid Sheet, and must be in increments indicated by the minimum raise number printed on the Bid Sheet. Once a bid is entered it may not be removed.
- 4) The last call for bidding will be at 8:30 p.m. The auction will close at 8:45 p.m. Winners will be posted by 9:30 p.m. Your items will be ready to be picked up as you leave the gala at the end of the evening.
- 5) Payment is accepted by cash, check, Visa, MasterCard, American Express or Discover. There are no refunds. Payment must be made tonight. Great Swamp Watershed Association is not responsible for auction items that are not redeemed within the time period specified by the original donor. Please note any restrictions or deadlines before you bid.
- 6) If you have any questions about the auction, please ask a staff member.

On behalf of everyone at the Great Swamp Watershed Association, we thank you for your support and wish you good luck!

From The Archives

Glacial Lake Passaic

In 1880, Prof. George Hammel Cook found the first evidence that Great Swamp and the Passaic Meadow were once covered by the waters of a glacial lake. This map (left) depicts one possible shape for the one-time Lake Passaic.

Birders

Where birds go, so go bird watchers, like the two in this 1960s-era photo. Great Swamp is an ideal destination for both (below).

Aerial View

Just Shocking!

Scientists at GSWA's 2009 BioBlitz collect aquatic specimens from the Great Swamp by stunning them with a mild electric shock (right).

From The Archives

Fowl!

Head of the Class

Like this school group from 1966 (above), five decades of children have come to Great Swamp to learn about science and nature. How many lives have been touched by this magical place?

Pitching In

Volunteers like the ones in this group from 1999 (centerfold)

have contributed so much to the preservation of Great Swamp through the years.

Thanks to all our GSWA volunteers—past, present, and future.

Sign For The Times

A popular photographic subject for 5 decades, this marker (right) appears at the Morris County Great Swamp Outdoor Education Center in Chatham Twp.

We make things bloom. New Jersey's future success depends on our ability to effectively manage the need for environmental protection with the need for a growing economy. At PSEG, we're committed to both. For three decades, we've been working to reduce the environmental impact of our own operations and working with others to achieve effective, innovative solutions to today's environmental issues. We're committed to reducing our carbon footprint through investments in renewable energy, efficient central power generation and energy efficiency measures. And, through investments in our customers and communities we're helping them reduce their carbon footprint as well. Balancing economic development and environmental protection is critical to creating a better, healthier world for our children. It's one way in which we're making things bloom in New Jersey.
